							Wrong:

A big turnout tonight, great to see you all. Well done to Tony and Adrian getting them all correct - and just 10 seconds in it. With a relatively compact area there were no time penalties and a lot of people visited all the controls; so accuracy proved to be more important than speed!

The results don't distinguish between missed and not visited, I hope to publish an update with this but it will be the weekend. Mark has commented that there were a lot of errors on control 18, however 8 people did record it correctly - it was there -----
